God gave the church a sure foundation in the Scriptures, but various doctrines throughout the centuries have taken away from or added to the truths of Scripture. Restoring Biblical Foundations returns to two foundational aspects of Scripture – covenant and Torah – to examine what God says about each one. The covenant section is a review of seven covenants that God has made with man. These covenants are shown to complement one other as they come together to form the covenant that Jesus the Messiah has made with His body. The Torah section develops principles about the Torah from nearly two hundred passages of Scripture. These Biblical principles are then used to build an extensive definition of Torah, and to show that the Torah is a necessary part of a believer's walk.
